Profile

Hello, I am an N3 graduate, Studying for N2. I have also finished Bachelor's with English as my major. I am extremely passionate about teaching, I have been teaching for 3 years now. I am also a person interested in psychology and when teaching students, I also tend to look at my teaching from a psychological perspective. I strive to give my students the best experience everyday, and try to continuously improve on my methods.

Qualities and values

As I gain more and more experience in the field of teaching, I recognize The Value of kindness, patience and consideration more and more. I Try to Work with the student while simultaneously trying to push them. My first ever teacher of japanese taught me the value of patience while also demonstrating it in the class, which I would handle later on. In addition to these, I also value being flexible, I have taught multiple books, Used multiple sources and created all sorts of tests for the students..
